Dear Advisory members,

I hope this finds you all well and healthy!

We would like to inform you that the Nutrition and Dietetics program at Long Beach City College (LBCC) would like to convert the Nutrition Assistant degree from an AA (Associate in Art) to an AS (Associate in Science). We believe the change will be advantageous both for the college and our students. First, it will drop the unit requirement to 60 as opposed to 63, which will allow students to graduate sooner, enter to industry market, and remain within the financial aid unit requirement. Second, it AS degree will align with other Career Technical Education (CTE) programs at the college and in our region. In order to achieve this goal, we will need approval from the advisory board members. We will be grateful if you can consider the request and provide us with the necessary feedback by next week Monday Dec 7th (please reply to all). As always, we are appreciative of your support for the Nutrition and Dietetics program at LBCC. If you have any questions please feel free to contact me. Thank you.

Dear Advisory members,

I hope this finds you all well and healthy!

We would like to inform you that the Nutrition and Dietetics program at Long Beach City College (LBCC) would like to convert the Nutrition Assistant degree from an AA (Associate in Art) to an AS (Associate in Science). We believe the change will be advantageous both for the college and our students. First, it will drop the unit requirement to 60 as opposed to 63, which will allow students to graduate sooner, enter to industry market, and remain within the financial aid unit requirement.

Second, it AS degree will align with other Career Technical Education (CTE) programs at the college and in our region. In order to achieve this goal, we will need approval from the advisory board members. We will be grateful if you can consider the request and provide us with the necessary feedback by next week Monday Dec 7th (please reply to all). As always, we are appreciative of your support for the Nutrition and Dietetics program at LBCC. If you have any questions please feel free to contact me. Thank you.

Dear Advisory members,

I hope this finds you all well and healthy!

We would like to inform you that the Nutrition and Dietetics program at Long Beach City College (LBCC) would like to convert the Nutrition Assistant degree from an AA (Associate in Art) to an AS (Associate in Science). We believe the change will be advantageous both for the college and our students. First, it will drop the unit requirement to 60 as opposed to 63, which will allow students to graduate sooner, enter to industry market, and remain within the financial aid unit requirement. Second, it AS degree will align with other Career Technical Education (CTE) programs at the college and in our region. In order to achieve this goal, we will need approval from the advisory board members. We will be grateful if you can consider the request and provide us with the necessary feedback by next week Monday Dec 7th (please reply to all). As always, we are appreciative of your support for the Nutrition and Dietetics program at LBCC. If you have any questions please feel free to contact me. Thank you.

Healthy Regards,

Koby Moridzadeh, M.ED., RDN
