Introduction

This report details occupations relevant to the corrections program. Completion of the program provides students with the theories, principles, and techniques to provide services to the incarcerated. For this report, the correctional officer occupational group are divided into two distinct categories, correctional officers and correctional officer management. Although these occupational groups require similar knowledge and skills, jobs in the correctional officer management group require previous work experience of five years or less (Exhibit 1). The occupation used to analyze supply/demand is the occupation listed below:

- Correctional Officers and Jailers

The occupations in the correctional officer management occupational group are listed below and will be analyzed separately, due to the previous work experience they require:

- First-Line Supervisors of Correctional Officers
- First-Line Supervisors of Police and Detectives

Exhibit 1: Work experience required for corrections officer occupations

Occupation	Work Experience Required
Correctional Officers and Jailers	None
First-Line Supervisors of Correctional Officers	Less than five years
First-Line Supervisors of Police and Detectives	Less than five years
