

Program Endorsement Brief:

Agricultural Technology and Sciences in the North region

North/Far North Center of Excellence, January 2020

INTRODUCTION

This report provides an overview of the labor market demand and educational program supply for occupations related to agricultural technology and sciences in the 7-county North region and the broader 22-county North/Far North region.

SUMMARY OF KEY FINDINGS

- Agriculture technology occupations are projected to have 170 annual openings in the North region over the next five years.
- Median hourly wages for the selected occupations are above the regional living wage for a single adult. Hourly wages range from $15 to $22 per hour.
- Agriculture technology training programs in the North region conferred an average of 36 awards per year over the last three years.

The report contains the following sections:

- Occupational demand,
- Wages and job postings,
- Education and training,
- Regional program supply, and
- Findings and recommendations.

OCCUPATIONAL DEMAND

The following Standard Occupational Classification (SOC) codes related to the proposed program were included in the analysis:¹

19-4011.01 - Agricultural Technicians
Description:	Set up or maintain laboratory equipment and collect samples from crops or animals. Prepare specimens or record data to assist scientists in biology or related life science experiments.
Sample job titles:	Agricultural Research Technician, Agricultural Research Technologist, Agricultural Technician, Laboratory Technician (Lab Tech), Research Assistant, Research Associate, Research Specialist, Research Technician, Seed Analyst, Senior Agricultural Assistant
19-4011.02 - Food Science Technicians
Description:	Perform standardized qualitative and quantitative tests to determine the physical or chemical properties of food or beverage products.
Sample job titles:	Central Lab Technician (CLT), Food Science Technician, Lab Tech (Laboratory Technician), Laboratory Assistant (Lab Assistant), Operations Technician, Quality Analyst, Quality Assurance Analyst (QA Analyst), Quality Control Technician (QC Technician), Quality Technician, Technical Services Analyst
45-1011.00 - First-Line Supervisors of Farming, Fishing, and Forestry Workers
Description:	Directly supervise and coordinate the activities of agricultural, forestry, aquacultural, and related workers.
Sample job titles:	Please see job titles in job postings section
45-2011.00 - Agricultural Inspectors
Description:	Inspect agricultural commodities, processing equipment and facilities, and fish and logging operations, to ensure compliance with regulations and laws governing health, quality, and safety.
Sample job titles:	Brand Inspector; Consumer Safety Inspector (CSI); Deputy Brand Inspector; Food Inspector; Food Sanitarian; Grain Inspector; Inspector; Inspector, Food Safety and Inspection Service (Inspector, FSIS); Seed and Fertilizer Specialist; Shipping Point Inspector

PROGRAM SUPPLY

This report analyzed the following Taxonomy of Program (TOP) and corresponding Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) codes :

- TOP: 0101.00 – Agriculture Technology and Sciences, General
- CIP: 01.0000 – Agriculture, General

Exhibit 11 compares the total number of awards (certificates and degrees) conferred by related training providers in the selected TOP and CIP codes in the North region over the last three academic years.

FINDINGS

- Between 2008 and 2018, agriculture technology occupations declined by 150 jobs in the North region alone. Job losses were confined to two of the three studied occupations: ag and food science technicians lost 109 jobs, and first-line supervisors of farming, fishing, and forestry workers lost 47 jobs.
- Jobs for ag and food technicians and first-line supervisors are projected to increase by 8% and 4%, respectively, over the next five years. Jobs for agricultural inspectors are projected to remain stable (no increase or decline) over the next five years.
- There will be an estimated 170 job openings per year for the three occupations in the North region over the next five years (through 2023).
- Median hourly wages for the selected occupations are above the regional living wage for a single adult ($11.48). Hourly wages are highest for ag and food technicians in the North, at $22 per hour. First-line supervisors of farming, fishing, and forestry workers are estimated to earn $21 per hour while agricultural inspectors are estimated to earn $15 per hour.
- Burning Glass Labor Insights identified a pool of 109 jobs for the three occupations studied. Most job postings were for ag and food technicians.
- Between 21.5% and 43% of incumbent workers in the studied occupations have either attended some college or earned an associate degree. Some college, and perhaps earning a postsecondary certificate, is the most common educational attainment level for ag and food science technicians and agricultural inspectors. Sixty-three percent of incumbent first-line supervisors hold only a high school diploma.
- The typical education level required for entry-level work includes a high school diploma for first-line supervisors, an associate's degree for ag and food science technicians, and a bachelor's degree for agricultural inspectors.
- Community colleges in the North region conferred an average of 20 certificates and 16 associate degrees in agriculture technology and science programs between 2016 and 2019.

RECOMMENDATIONS

- Based on a three-year average of annual awards in agriculture technology and sciences (36 certificates and degrees), and projected yearly openings for agriculture technology occupations (170 openings), the region appears to have some demand for programs related to the occupation.
